Or for something different try this (German) Fisherman's Rib

Cast on an odd number of stitches (31) and K2, P2 alternately.

Start every row with K2 – this way the pattern jumps one stitch back and fore in every row.

The result is a continuous knit stitch then a moss stitch (K1, P1 staggered), a continuous purl stitch and then another moss stitch.

The pronounced knit and purl ribs give a slight zigzag effect not so different to the fisherman's rib.
